

Farm Program Will Get Severe Test by Debate Next Week in Congress

Discussion to Cover Costs, Marketing Quotas and Question Whether Crop Control is Advisable—Borah Opposed.

WORDY WEEK

Words and Petty Bickering Mark First Week of Special Session.

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The administration's farm program, whipped into shape by committee compromises, will encounter fiery debate when it comes before the Senate and House next week.

Its piecemeal progress through the committees, plus comments from other legislators, indicated today the discussion would embrace costs, marketing quotas, compulsory versus voluntary compliance, and the broad question of whether any crop control measure is advisable.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) said yesterday he was opposed to any restriction on production when "people are going hungry."

It would be cheaper, he said, to buy up surplus farm products and give them to the poor, rather than finance control or surplus storage measures.

Parliamentary procedure indicated that, while the bills will reach both branches of Congress Monday, debate will not begin in the Senate until Tuesday noon and in the House Wednesday.

Democrats on the Senate committee said they adopted a "give and take" attitude on details in order to speed up the measure, which is patterned along the "ever-normal granary" asked by Secretary Wallace.

This would continue the present soil conservation program, pay benefits to cooperating farmers, provide loans for surplus crops, and then clamp down marketing quotas—if two-thirds of the affected farmers voted for them—whenever stored supplies became excessive. This general program covered corn and wheat.

Meanwhile, a periodic summary of conditions by the agriculture department declared crop control legislation in itself was no guarantee of farm prosperity.

The report said slackened industrial activity, increased prices the farmer must pay for goods and services, and poor prospects for improvement in foreign sales would complicate efforts to stabilize agriculture.

Wordy Week

Wordy manifestations of uneasiness over business conditions exhausted today the first week of the special congressional session, during which the Roosevelt legislative program barely inched ahead.

Chautemps told the chamber before the vote last night that the investigation already had disclosed a situation of "terrible gravity." He pledged his cabinet to preserve "Republican order" at home and defend peace abroad.

State Council to Meet in Syracuse, Kingston in 1938

The new State Conservation Council will hold its annual meeting in Syracuse on December 2, 3 and 4, and it is expected that the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county will be represented at the conference. Local sportsmen said today that it was expected that the council would accept the invitation to hold the 1938 meeting in Kingston. One of the attractions at the Syracuse meeting next month will be the big sportsmen's show to be held in the armory.

Many Suggestions Are Advanced at Hearing On Traffic Noises Here

About 20 Residents Attend Hearing, Majority of Whom Live on East Chester Street, and Complain of Noises.

SEEK RELIEF

Declare One-Way Traffic in Southerly Direction on East Chester St. Would Help.

Samuel M. Watts and Michael J. Powers speaking at the public hearing on traffic noises held by the Traffic Control Committee of the Common Council Friday evening in the council chambers in the city hall, suggested that residents of East Chester street would receive some relief from noisy truck traffic if only one-way traffic, and that in a southerly direction, was permitted. "I understand that was the idea of making the by-pass a one-way street for traffic when it was constructed," said Mr. Powers, while Mr. Watts said,

"If the street is restored to a one-way street we will get only half of the present noise anyway."

Alderman S. H. Peyer, chairman of the Traffic Control Committee, presided. The other member of the committee present was Alderman Joseph Epstein. About 20 residents attended the hearing, the majority of whom live on East Chester street.

In opening the hearing Alderman Peyer said that in September the council had received a communication from Mayor Heiselman suggesting that the council take some action on abating unnecessary noises caused by heavy truck travel through residential streets.

"This hearing," said Alderman Peyer, "is for the purpose of giving the public an opportunity of being heard and also that the traffic control committee may gain some idea from public expression as to what action can be taken.

Unable to Sleep

Mr. Watts, a resident of East Chester street, was the first speaker. He believed that some steps should be taken to relieve conditions so that residents of that street could obtain some sleep at night. With the constant heavy truck traffic through the street it was almost impossible to sleep. Residents of the street were not objecting to pleasure cars or local truck traffic, but based their objections on the heavily laden trucks from out of town.

George Schantz of East Chester street said he wished to confirm what Mr. Watts had said.

Mr. Powers, who resides on East Chester street, said it was hard to realize traffic conditions on that street unless on a warm summer night you attempted to sleep with a window open. He said that last summer when residents read Judge Traver's letter in the public press in which the judge wondered why the city allowed traveling freight cars to use the city streets may have thought the judge was trying to be funny, but the judge was entirely accurate in his remarks for a medium sized truck from out of town would weigh with its load fully 25 tons and many of the trucks were even much heavier.

A One-Way Street

Mr. Powers said that he understood that when East Chester street was constructed into a by-pass to 9-W it was never intended to be a two-way street for heavy truck traffic, but that heavy out-of-town trucks were only to use the street as a one-way street and in a southerly direction. He believed if that original idea was placed into effect that it would assist in alleviating the present noise nuisance.

Mr. Watts said that he was heartily in accord with what Mr. Powers had said and that the present troubles of the residents of the street were not due to local traffic but due entirely to out-of-town heavy trucks.

Attorney John DeWitt said that in Bridgeport, Conn., it was the custom at night to re-route truck traffic through the business section, allowing them to pass through the residential section only in the daytime. He said that he appeared at the hearing for East Chester street residents confronting the property owned by his father, William C. DeWitt, and

Two May Share

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP)—Three jail-breaking members of the O'Connell kidnap gang were held under heavy guard in the "escape proof" Albany county jail today while in Syracuse a janitor and a parking lot employee nursed hopes of sharing a $6,000 reward for their capture.

Although Attorney General Homer S. Cummings declared he had not decided on disposition of the reward, a brief statement which he issued in Washington was taken as an indication that the money would be split between Ivan Whiteford and Casper Mirra, who gave police information that led to the arrest of the fugitives after their escape from the Onondaga county penitentiary at Jamesville, N. Y., last Tuesday.

Halfax Stays in Berlin

Berlin, Nov. 20 (AP)—Viscount Halfax, Britain's informal emissary of good will to Germany, decided today to extend his visit after a long telephone conversation with London. The decision was interpreted as evidence that his talks with the leaders of the Third Reich had not been completed.

Lord Halfax had been scheduled to leave Berlin for London tomorrow morning, at the latest. He intended now, however, to stay until Monday and possibly Tuesday.

Nation's News in Brief

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—An other chapter in the Lindbergh baby kidnap case was closed today after two men lost appeals from prison sentences for the abduction of Paul H. Wendel, Trenton, N. J., lawyer.

By a four-to-one vote the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn yesterday upheld the conviction of Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss for kidnapping Wendel, who first "confessed," then denied he had stolen the Lindbergh child from its nursey.

Port Clinton, O., Nov. 20 (AP)—The 37th Tank Corps, Ohio National Guard, was ordered mobilized today for duty at Akron where a sit-down strike of rubber workers has closed the plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company making 12,000 idle.

Medical units of the 148th Infantry also were mobilized.

Donated His Shoes

Tokyo, Nov. 20 (AP)—Soldiers have to have shoes. Ikuo Skeda, a bulking private in the Japanese army, lost his in the Shanghai fighting. They might have been easily replaced except for the fact they were number twelves. The quartermaster was unable to replace him. But Gordon Warner of Los Angeles, a former captain of the University of Southern California swimming team who coaches water polo at Tokyo's Meiji University, also wears number twelves. Warner donated a pair, along with six pairs of socks.

Cat's Eye Hearing

Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin, F. W. Gleisner, training master of the West Shore Division of the New York Central, M. C. Cleveland, chief engineer of the State Public Service Commission and Harry H. Flemming, attorney for the New York Central, are shown at the public hearing for additional protection at the existing grade crossings in this city.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP)—The state appropriation for unemployment relief, and the method of financing it, loomed today as a major factor in determining New York's 1938-39 budget and revenue raising program.

Expecting a rise in unemployment, State Relief Commissioner David C. Adie has notified Governor Lehman that at least $5,000,000 will be necessary to provide shoes, food, clothing and shelter for the state's unemployed in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

This amount is $10,000,000 more than the current appropriation, $20,000,000 of which is financed out of the general fund while the remaining $2,000,000 is derived from the newly enacted one cent gross utility tax.

The governor, should he grant an increased relief appropriation without drastically cutting other items, probably would be forced to recommend a new or increased continuation of the utility levy which expires June 30.

Units Financing

At the same time, he is faced with the problem of financing several new administrative units created as a result of his social security and labor programs and is confronted, on the other hand, with a possible reduction in estimated revenues for the current fiscal year from the stock transfer, personal income and corporation taxes because of the recent deflation of market security values.

Lehman is opposed to additional bond issues for financing relief, insisting the state adopt a "pay-as-you-go" policy in the future. New York, since 1931, has financed $240,000,000 of its $300,000,000 relief funds from bond issues.

The governor, who has until January 15 to submit the budget and tax program to the 1938 Legislature, is known to be determined to reduce expenditures if possible so as not to exceed the current record-breaking $400,000,000 agenda. Since taking office in 1933, he has reduced the state's deficit from $100,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Severe Street Fighting

Chinese said Soochow was abandoned after it virtually had been razed by Japanese aerial bombs. They declared their troops, however, still desperately defended Changshu, northern anchor of the line.

At the time the case was argued before the Appellate Division, it was contended by counsel for Breitfelder that both LeFevre and DuBois were intoxicated when the accident occurred, and that they stumbled against the car, which was moving slowly, trying to avoid hitting them.

LeFevre, however, denied the charge of intoxication.

This Buck Deer Too Tough; Breaks a Window; Hits Car

There was considerable excitement in the uptown business section this afternoon when a buck deer was found strolling through the yard of the First Dutch Church. Pedestrians made an effort to corner the deer back of the Montgomery Ward store on Fair street, and the animal was too agile and got away and dashed across the street plunging through the large plate-glass window of the uptown postoffice. Shattering the glass from its head the animal backed out of the window and started over John street into Wall street where it collided with a truck.

Another truck nor deer were apparently damaged and the last seen of the deer he was going south under full speed.

On the way down town he stopped off in yards on Green street, Clinton avenue and Cedar street.

Unfortunately, however, the deer did not fully escape for while in a brickyard on Cedar street the animal suddenly decided to go elsewhere and leaped the fence directly in front of the big truck of F. B. Matthews & Company. The truck was not damaged, but the deer dropped dead on the pavement.

It was just one jump too many for Mr. DeWitt.

The police department was notified and Officer Henry Baumann, who is a noted deer hunter, drove to Cedar street, placed the dead deer in his car and drove back to the city hall, where the deer was held awaiting the arrival of the game inspector.

Officer Baumann has been out deer hunting this year, but this is the closest he got to a deer today.

Government Moves

Nanking, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Chinese government formally announced removal of the nation's capital today to Chungking in Szechuan province.

Chinese batteries still prevented Japanese engineers from repairing a dynamited railroad bridge across the Yellow river about five miles north of Tsinanfu. Reports of fighting at Lukow, south of the river and about four miles from the city, indicated, however, that the Japanese had forced at least one crossing.

Another Chinese army resisted desperately in North China to defend Tsinanfu, of Shantung province, very similar to that used in the Great Bull Market on Smith avenue that three hooligans were in the store stealing merchandise. One of the radio cars responded to the alarm and picked up Albert Nelson, 23, who claimed New York as his home; John McCarthy, 47, of Syracuse, and William Kelly, 39, of Providence, R. I. The two were held on disorderly conduct charges and Kelly on a petit larceny charge.

They were arraigned before Judge Culleton in police court this morning at which time they said they were together in the store. Kelly said he had picked up a pound of coffee, but that the three of them had expected to pay for the coffee.

"Did you check their worldly possessions?" asked Judge Culleton, turning to Lieutenant Charles Phinney.

"I did," replied Phinney, "and all the money they had with them were five nickels between them."

They were released on $100 bail.

Arthur Dumont, 33, of 30 Chambers street, was arrested on a warrant charging him with failing to support his family and was turned over to Trooper Reilly for arraignment later before Justice Mooney.

Two Men Hurt At Shaft No. 2

Two men were injured at shaft 2 New York city water works project Friday when a large boulder on the side of a hill became loosened and rolled down on the two men. George Tierney of 636 Broadway, Kingston, suffered severe scalp and head lacerations and injuries about the shoulders and body and is confined to the Benedictine Hospital under care of Dr. John F. Larkin. A Mr. Lowe of Wawarsing, the second man injured, was treated at the hospital and returned home.

Both men were given first aid at the scene by Dr. Lockwood, who had the men conveyed to the local hospital by ambulance for treatment. Tierney's condition was reported as fair.

25 ATTEND TOWNSEND MEETING AT NEWBURGH

About 25 members of Kingston Townsend Club attended a fine entertainment given by Newburgh Townsend Club Friday evening. The lodge hall was filled.

A playlet entitled "The Problems of Rose and Jack," songs, readings, etc., with music by the Stotesbury Trio, made a pleasing program. On display was an autograph quilt, bearing the names of members and friends of Newburgh Club. The names of Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. Townsend were embroidered in the center block by Mrs. Townsend herself and sent to the Newburgh Club. The quilt was made by the Newburgh ladies and will be disposed of later. Refreshments were served and the refreshments left for their homes at a late hour.

To Probe Living Costs.

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The federal trade commission arranged quick compliance today with a presidential order for an investigation of higher living costs, an inquiry which many observers regarded as portending new anti-trust legislation. President Roosevelt wrote Chairman W. A. Ayres of the commission that his attention "has been directed to reports of a marked increase in the cost of living during the present year,  attributable in part to monopolistic practices and other unwholesome methods of competition."

FIND NEW SOURCE OF MANGANESE ORE

Discovery Vitaly Impor-tant to Steel Industry.

Washington.—With Cuba today the United States' only nearby commercial source of manganese, vital to the manufacture of steel, widespread interest was aroused in official circles here by the recent announcement of Cyril von Baumann, noted explorer, that he had discovered rich deposits of the ore in Ecuador, South America.

Von Baumann, who returned to this country from South America recently with his wife, leaving his explorer-partner, Andre Roosevelt, in the Ecuadorian jungles to complete their explorations, did not announce the exact location of discovery. However, he said he estimated the deposit was worth $5,000,000.

Only a small amount of manganese is now mined in the United States, which, except for Cuban supplies, is dependent on such far away countries as Russia, India, South African Gold Coast and Brazil.

Used in Steel Making.

In the nine years through 1936, imports accounted for about 90 per cent of total United States consumption of manganese ore in steel making. Of the total ore imported, Russia accounted for 44 per cent; Brazil, 23 per cent; the Gold Coast, 19 per cent; British India, 9 per cent;

Cuba, 6 per cent; all other countries, 22 per cent.

At present, production of the ore by the Cuban-American Manganese company, near Santiago, Cuba, amounts to between 10,000 and 12,000 tons monthly. While it is pointed out that this amount probably could be stepped up considerably, additional nearby stocks of manganese would be desirable to supply the demand of the American market in the event of an emergency.

Manganese is of particular significance to the United States in that it is one of the eight basic war materials in which this country is not self-sufficient, according to the national resources board. The army and navy munitions board places it at the head of the list of 23 vitally necessary raw materials for wartime manufacturing.

Vitally Important.

With daily threats of general conflict in Europe, and the Far East already involved in undeclared war, officials here see a double importance in von Baumann's announcement. It is pointed out that if the Ecuadorian supply proved as rich as the Cuban-American holdings, the American steel industry, largest user of manganese in the world, would be able to get its supply at lowered cost because of the shorter distance it would have to be shipped. But more important, it was noted here, the United States navy also would be in a position to protect shipments from this source as well as from Cuba, in time of war.

It was felt here that while difficulty of production in the undeveloped interior of Ecuador would defer for many years the actual appearance of Ecuadorian manganese on the market, development of the new find could be speeded up, in event of emergency, to the point where it would be an important supplement to the rich Cuban supply.

U. S. Surgeon in Spain to, Repair Shattered Faces

San Sebastian, Spain.—An American surgeon began recently in San Sebastian a mission of mercy through insurgent Spain to repair the shattered faces of thousands of men. The surgeon, Dr. J. Eastman Sheehan, professor of plastic surgery of the Polyclinic Medical School, New York, has a distressing assignment. Medical aids in insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco say there are as many mutilated faces in the insurgent army today as in the British army at the end of the World War.

Dr. Sheehan began a tour of insurgent military hospitals in San Sebastian, in Saragossa, and in Salamanca. Associated with Dr. Sheehan is Dr. Robert McIntosh, professor of anaesthesia at Oxford University, England.

Many of Franco's soldiers in most urgent need of plastic surgery were wounded in hand-to-hand fighting. There has been more personal combat, with slashing knives and bayonets, in the more than a year of Spanish strife than in most modern wars, according to military experts.

Church Abolishes Its

Collection Plate; Gains

Rock Falls, Ill.—Abolition of the collection plate in the Rock Falls Methodist Episcopal church by Rev. R. M. Furnish, pastor, has more than doubled the church's revenue.

Together with doubling the church's revenue, the pastor believes the innovation has created a more devout feeling among his congregation.

Instead of contributing to Sunday collections the members are visited each month by a collector and a definite sum is paid toward support of the church.

Each parishioner knows at the beginning of the church year what he will be expected to pay and those not members of the congregation may contribute voluntarily by dropping whatever sum they wish into a small box kept in the vestibule of the church.

Troop 3 of the Boy Scouts of America held its usual weekly meeting Thursday at St. Joseph's School at 7:30. The Scouts welcomed Paul McGhan, new scoutmaster. Tenderfeet badges were awarded to Edwin Davis, Donald Kremer, Frederick Brink, Edwin Gerlach and Barent Carter.

OLD REVOLUTIONARY FORT IS RESTORED

Through False Tradition Called "Fort Nonsense."

Once Privately Owned.

Although it was a familiar landmark, the site of Fort Nonsense was privately owned and not regularly open to the public until a few years ago, when Mr. Francis E. Woodruff of Morristown furnished funds for the purchase and preservation of the site by the town of Morristown. Upon the establishment of the Morristown National Historical Park in 1933, the area was donated by the town to the United States, thereby making the reconstruction a possible unit in the educational program of Morristown National Historical Park.

The reconstruction of Fort Nonsense is based mainly upon two sources: archeological work on the site itself and old military textbooks. The archeological work revealed the position, shape, and depth of the trenches as well as the location of the two entrances and guard house. Copper plates and descriptions in French and English fortification manuals served as a means of arriving at construction details not revealed by the archaeological process.

After the preparation of plans based on these types of information, actual reconstruction of the fort was begun. In most cases this consisted of removing the dirt fill which had washed into the trenches and throwing it back on the parapets. Where the ruins were insufficiently pronounced to warrant rebuilding on that basis, contemporary specifications for the construction of fortifications were followed.

The picket gates were made four inches thick—like the originals, heavy enough to prevent the penetration of musket balls. The guard house was purposely constructed small according to the accepted practice of the period in order that the sentry on duty might not lie down and go to sleep.

Each parishioner knows at the beginning of the church year what he will be expected to pay and those not members of the congregation may contribute voluntarily by dropping whatever sum they wish into a small box kept in the vestibule of the church.

Ohio Man Killed.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP)—Raymond H. Beatty, 31, of Farmdale, Ohio, was fatally injured early this morning when his truck-trailer collided with a sedan near Wappingers Falls, several miles south of here. Edward Willis, 27, negro of (15 West 118th street) New York City, described by Assistant District Attorney Thomas A. Laverty as the driver of the sedan, was taken to Vassar Hospital here in a critical condition.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—One of the most carefully planned careers in the movies is that of 11-year-old Jane Withers, and the planner is a "movie mamma" who lacks the disagreeable characteristics usually associated with that term.

But at the Demona race track, where Jane is on location for a new version of the famous "Checkers" yarn, Mrs. Ruth Withers was sitting at her usual respectful distance behind the camera. The only time she took part in the movie proceedings was when Jane, during the scene, got something in her eye—and then Mrs. Withers removed it only when Jane was sent over to her.

Not having seen Jane in some time, I was rather surprised at the lack of change in her. She's only three inches taller than when she first cracked pictures in Shirley Temple's "Bright Eyes," but she's as brown as toast.

Mother Wanted Stage Career

"She hasn't missed a day in pictures because of illness in these three years," Mrs. Withers remarked. "She's happiest when she's on a picture—hates to see one end, can't wait for another to begin."

Jane's film career represents the fruition of her mother's own unrealized dream of theatrical success. When they came here from Atlanta, they had tough times breaking in, but Mrs. Withers refused to give up. She was right. Jane now, unaided by spectacular or expensive picture vehicles, has pulled herself up to the very edge of the charmed circle of box-office favorites. The last poll she ranked eleventh—quite a feat when you consider she is on the same lot with Shirley Temple.

If her film career encounters an awkward age problem, the Withers plan to keep on in radio and personal appearance tours until college time. Jane's studying Spanish now to include South America in her itinerary.

A Child Star's Future

Jane and her mother have never been apart for so much as a single night—and the fact brought up an interesting question. After devoting her whole life to Jane—back home she never accepted a bridge invitation unless she could bring the child along—what will the mother do when Jane grows up, and gets married as most girls do? Except for Jane's home, and her husband (who's in business out here now), Mrs. Withers has refused to let other interests into her life.

SUNDAY REHEARSAL FOR K. OF C. MINSTRELS.

The end men and those taking part in the second portion of the minstrels to be presented by Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, will meet for rehearsal at the K. of C. Home at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

It is important that all attend rehearsals for the entire cast will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, and each member is asked to make a special effort to be present.

The minstrel show will be presented at St. Joseph's school hall on Sunday afternoon, November 28, and Monday evening, November 29, and at St. Mary's school hall Tuesday evening, November 30.

"Midwest," "Middlewest," Hold Indefinite Terms

The term "Midwest," or "Middlewest," is an indefinite one, and opinions differ as to just what states constitute the region popularly referred to as the Middle West, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The United States was settled from the Atlantic seaboard, and the terms "east," "middle west," "west," and "far west" were applied to different sections as the frontier was pushed toward the Pacific.

In its broadest sense the Middle West consists of that part of the United States lying between the Appalachian and Rocky Mountains on the one hand, and the Mason and Dixon line and the Canadian border on the other. This section comprises the states of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota and South Dakota.

However, many people restrict the term to Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, and class all states west of the Mississippi as "West" or "Far West."

COOPERATE FOR ABUNDANCE

Criticising both government and business leaders for the mental attitude that made them panic-stricken over the announcement of bumper wheat, cotton and corn crops, Dr. Glenn Frank has pointed out some facts worth repeating. "The blunt, brutal truth," he said, "is that, except as a justified means of meeting an emergency, there is neither rhyme nor reason in the fantastic notion that we can bring the abundant life to the American millions by putting our productive genius in chains, by producing less and charging more."

He conceded the wisdom, under some conditions, of the government taking a hand to prevent ruinous extremes in farm prices, and for moderate price control by business interests in dangerous situations. But as for the principle of arbitrary price-jacking as a regular procedure he said:

I have no sympathy with the inconsistent manufacturer who drastically reduces the output of his factory to keep his industrial prices up, and then criticizes the farmer for joining in programs of drastic crop reduction to keep his agricultural prices up. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

My point is that if industry and agriculture are to make possible better-fed and better-clothed and better-housed people, the answer is not to have agriculture join industry in the policy of resisting production and raising prices, but to have both renounce this economic insanity and organize from coast to coast for the production of more goods at lower prices, with satisfactory total profit from larger volume.

With such agreement, express or implied, there would surely be more hope for the abundant life in America. Neither industry nor agriculture can do it alone. And both together, in such an enlightened program, would need the friendly cooperation of the government.

BACK SEAT CONTROL

A new wrinkle in back-seat driving, and a good one, is reported from Ardmore, Pa. As a car drove over past a policeman, a woman shouted from the rear seat: "Officer, arrest this man! He's too drunk to drive." The policeman stopped the car, found that it was even as the passenger had said, and took the driver to the police station. He was her husband.

It is better, of course, to stop one's husband, or anyone else, from driving before he starts, when he is intoxicated. It would save many tragedies if people in general would refuse to ride in cars with a driver who has been drinking, no matter who he is, and would take any necessary steps to get such a driver away from the wheel when his condition is discovered. It is as sensible and legitimate as preventing a potential murder. In fact, it may be doing that very thing.

WORLD HYPOCRISY

The man who disturbed the English Armistice Day ceremonies by leaping toward the king and shouting "all this is hypocrisy" is not to be prosecuted. It was found that he had no desire to injure the king or even to create a disturbance. He was merely overcome by his own horror of present wars, preparation for future wars and the general state of international suspicion and quarrels. Why, he thought, celebrate an armistice with bowed head, memorial speech and prayer, while going right ahead with more wars?

This man may be set down as mentally unbalanced, but millions of persons, all over the world, who read of his Armistice Day outburst, must have felt for a moment that they'd like to leap out and shout, too. The diplomatic dickerings, bluffs, threats, trap-laying and treaty-defying, and the struggle for power, prestige and face-saving, all seem so tragically beside the point.

The world needs what is sometimes says it wants—peace, cooperation, thriving trade, wider distribution of goods, mutual friendliness. It does things which lead in the opposite direction. Either we are tremendously incompetent to handle our human affairs or we are hypocritical about our real desires.

COMFORT AND CHARM

A young woman who is much sought after as a speaker and consultant on charm, and who has written a popular book on the subject, has more plain good sense than magic in her formula. "The charm I have dealt with," she explains, "does not mean following any set of rules, but being controlled by a sense of fitness, having an elasticity that equips us to meet any situation."

In charm, it appears, as is in many other matters, individuals often can't see the woods for the trees. Thus she has had people come to her with such problems as the correct position of their eyes when talking to others. "It is pathetic," she says, "that they should need such minute guidance. If they had the proper mental approach, they would be comfortable and it would never occur to them to worry about their eyes."

That is the trouble with too much reliance on rules. They set the book-taught charmer to thinking about the correct positions of eyes and hands, the correct gestures for any given conversation, and so on, with the result that charm doesn't have a ghost of a chance and everybody concerned is completely uncomfortable.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HEAT IS LIFE

Some years ago when a child had a rise in temperature to 103 degrees, and an adult to 102 degrees, it was thought good treatment to try to reduce or "bring down" the fever, and any drug or other method of reducing the temperature was considered good treatment.

For the past few years however physicians have recognized that a rise in temperature simply meant that there was trouble—infection or other condition—present, and that the fact that the heat of the body had increased showed that the body was putting up a fight against the infection or other condition. Therefore, while the heart is protected by having the patient off his feet, no medicine to bring the temperature down is now given, that is, if the temperature is within "safe" limits.

Just a few years ago, in an institution where patients afflicted with paralysis due to syphilis were confined, a patient had an attack of malaria during which he had, at times, a very high temperature. After he recovered from the malaria it was found that he had also recovered from his paralysis and mental condition.

Immediately, in this institution and others, patients similarly afflicted, whose cases were really incurable, were inoculated with the malaria organisms, the developing malaria was then treated by the usual quinine treatment, with a fair number of recoveries from the paralysis and mental trouble.

Then research men got the idea that it was perhaps the great heat, the great increase in temperature caused by the malaria that was destroying the organisms and products causing the disease and instead of infecting the patient with malaria, they caused a great increase in the body temperature by means of electricity in various forms—diathermy, short waves, electric cabinets, electric blankets and other means. The results obtained were equal to those obtained by the malaria treatment.

Heat stimulates all the body processes to increased activity, the blood flows faster, and the disease fighting blood corpuscles are greatly increased in number.

"The thought then is that in certain acute ailments such as influenza, pneumonia, bronchitis in adults, and in diphtheria, measles and other conditions in children, nature immediately increases the temperature to fight off these ailments.

However, in old or chronic ailments such as rheumatism, arthritis, and others, we can assist nature by increasing the body temperature by various methods. Heat is life.

Scourge

matics dickerings, bluffs, threats, trap-laying and treaty-defying, and the struggle for power, prestige and face-saving, all seem so tragically beside the point.

The world needs what is sometimes says it wants—peace, cooperation, thriving trade, wider distribution of goods, mutual friendliness. It does things which lead in the opposite direction. Either we are tremendously incompetent to handle our human affairs or we are hypocritical about our real desires.

COMFORT AND CHARM

A young woman who is much sought after as a speaker and consultant on charm, and who has written a popular book on the subject, has more plain good sense than magic in her formula.

"The charm I have dealt with," she explains, "does not mean following any set of rules, but being controlled by a sense of fitness, having an elasticity that equips us to meet any situation."

In charm, it appears, as is in many other matters, individuals often can't see the woods for the trees. Thus she has had people come to her with such problems as the correct position of their eyes when talking to others. "It is pathetic," she says, "that they should need such minute guidance. If they had the proper mental approach, they would be comfortable and it would never occur to them to worry about their eyes."

That is the trouble with too much reliance on rules. They set the book-taught charmer to thinking about the correct positions of eyes and hands, the correct gestures for any given conversation, and so on, with the result that charm doesn't have a ghost of a chance and everybody concerned is completely uncomfortable.

She tore up her note when she got back, because David was still away.

She went to work in the kitchen with a vengeance, and at 7:30 her heart gave a great flop, as she heard his key in the lock.

She dashed out to him.

"David, darling... I've been so crazy to have you come back! Sweetheart—I do want to apologize for being unreasonable, and a poor sport!"

She saw, at once, that there was something the matter with him. He looked at her, with a silly, bad-boy grin on his face.

"Gosh, Nina, we quarreled, didn't we?"

"Yes, David."

He smelt of liquor.

"Da-a-a-rling, I'm pl-astered!"

She laughed a little shakily.

"I know it, David."

"You know," he said and he leaned against the wall, "you know, I could have pulled myself together, baby, if I had come home and found the battle still raging... but finding you, all sweet like this... Lord, Nina, I've gone all soft. Was I a brute, last night? Kick me if I was."

Nina answered it, laughing.

"Yeah personally, I think Miss Nolan is trying to unseat me, Cordelia; but as David would say, she was the breakfast, dishes, that she would not forget his kindness. She would not let him down.

Gracie asked for a pick-me-up.

". . . and I mean the hair of an English sheep dog, Nina. It's not even clipped fox-terrier that bit me last night! Here, gimme, I'll pour my own."

She poured herself a good three fingers of gin, and downed it in one gulp.

"Now little Gracie can get home!"

"Did you come all the way down here, just-to-see-me?" Nina asked innocently.

Cordelia's New Sparkle

WHEN the girl had gone, Cordelia raised inquiring eyebrows. She didn't say anything she just looked after her.

Nina answered it, laughing.

"Yeah personally, I think Miss Nolan is trying to unseat me, Cordelia; but as David would say, she was the breakfast, dishes, that she would not let him down.

Nina had noticed some time before.

"The boy's got something, all right, darling."

"Hasn't he, though?"

Then they began talking about Cordelia.

Cordelia was different.

Nina began to wonder if she was getting some sort of a mania on the subject of thinking people had suddenly come to life, after walking about in a fog. First Hester, then herself, and now Cordelia... she giggled.

Nina had never seen him really tight before, but there was nothing horrid about it, he was only amusing, . . . and cunning, really. He wasn't the least bit disheveled; only when he took off his hat, one strand of bright copper hair was standing straight upon the top of his head. Somebody had done it to him, because it was moistened, and twisted.

He looked like a young, slightly dazed kid, who had just smoked his first cigar behind the barn.

She saw that he was not going to want any supper.

He lay down on the day-bed.

Muttered: "So damn—proverbial . . . husband coming back drunk after quarrel! . . . Didn't mean to, honestly kid, only I was so... gosh darn upset!"

"I don't blame you—sweetheart!"

Suddenly he began to chuckle.

"Lord, Nina," he said, "if you think I'm plastered, you ought to see Gracie!" and then he fell asleep.

Gracie.

Nina went in, and ate the meal she had prepared so carefully in solitude.

She told herself that David had forgiven her; that everything was going to be all right; that this was a new beginning...

Would-Be Trouble Maker

A FUNNY combination met in the apartment the next afternoon. Cordelia... and Gracie.

Cordelia had just been there a minute or two when Gracie walked in with a terrific hangover, and a mean light in her eye.

Nina introduced them and explained that Cordelia had just got back from Europe.

"I was just asking Nina," said Cordelia, looking too darkly beautiful, in a Paris creation for the autumn, "about that adorable husband of hers."

Gracie answered for her.

"Unless I miss my guess, he's got a head on him that would trip a whippet! Meaning—large."

The Characters

Miss, Junior League and ex-debutante, impulsively married David, hoping to end her intense love for her stepfather, but now she appreciates David and is disgusted with Richard.

Richard, the charming well-tailored stepfather, proposed secret love to Nina.

Nina was surprised that she could laugh so easily—so openly.

"I wasn't on it! Little David took off his coat and they got themselves a bun on."

Darling Cordelia looked as though it was quite the most natural thing in the world.

Gracie didn't.

She said, meanly: "What was the trouble, Nina, I've never seen him so low? . . . Just as though it was any of her business!

"We had stinkin' mean news,

Gracie didn't tell you? We have to move out, the apartment's rented."

Gracie said: "Oh, sure, he told me—that!"

And Cordelia said: "Oh, darling, what a shame!"

"Perhaps you can find a cheaper one, now?" Gracie was watching Nina closely.

"Perhaps."

"Oh, dear. It's so adorable here."

Cordelia slipped her arm through Nina's.

In a minute, Gracie let it slip that Jack Knight had been along, the evening before, and she was so visibly annoyed with herself, that Nina had to bite back a smile . . . because she was amused at Gracie, and because she felt so much better, now, that she knew.

It was very obvious that Miss Nolan had come to make trouble . . . at least to let on that she knew there had been trouble in the Day household.

Just one more thing to stack up against me," Nina thought, but she didn't really care much then.

David had been so sweet, and forgiving, and penitent himself that morning; and Nina was so glowingly full of her new resolve, that it would take a lot more than Gracie, with her hangover, to upset her now.

She had decided that God had been extraordinarily good to her, not letting Honey or David suspect anything. She had told the Lord, as she washed the breakfast dishes, that she would not forget his kindness. She would not let him down.

Gracie asked for a pick-me-up.

". . . and I mean the hair of an English sheep dog, Nina. It's not even clipped fox-terrier that bit me last night! Here, gimme, I'll pour my own."

She poured herself a good three fingers of gin, and downed it in one gulp.

Canned pears may be filled with cream cheese and grape jelly and served with French dressing on toast.

In stringing beads with very small holes first twist the cord tightly. Then dip the end into household cement or glue. When the cord is dry it will pass through the holes easily.

For cleaning tiles in the bathroom or kitchen use a soft cloth dipped in kerosene. Afterward, wash the tiles with warm water and then wipe them with a soft cloth.

To cut button holes first place the fabric over stout paper or a blotter. Then draw a chalk or pencil line the length of the hole and cut along that line with a razor blade.

Uses for adhesive tape: To hold torn shoe linings in place; to fasten loose book leaves; to repair torn music; to mend rubber hose, raincoats and overshoes.

Pie variety notes: Add half a cup of spiced diced peaches to mince meat for one pie; mix half a cup of orange marmalade into pumpkin pie filling.

Paint saver: Wash all soiled spaces on the kitchen walls before applying a fresh coat of paint.

Christmas shopping hint: Carry a list of the sizes of wearing apparel for each member of your family in your purse.

Cranberry jelly makes an effective garnish for fruit salads, croquettes, a la king combinations and roasts. Cut the jelly into one-inch cubes.

Sagging cane chair seats may be shrunk back into place by soaking them with warm water and soap suds. Allow the cane to dry thoroughly before using the chair again.

Peel bananas and dip them in maple syrup. Bake them until they are slightly brown. Top them with mint jelly and serve them with roast turkey or duck.

Boil apples. Cool and stuff them with cranberry jelly. Then top them with cream cheese. Serve with French dressing. Mold cranberry jelly into a ring. When it is thoroughly chilled unmold. Fill the center with ripe olives and celery curls.

Sprinkle grated cheese over hot soups, add a little chopped candied ginger to caramel puddings; combine carrots and mushrooms in cream sauce; add a few roasted peanuts to fruit salad; pour a little chili sauce over boiled cauliflower; top escalloped corn with cheese mixed with cracker crumbs.

Other 'Greens'
Rival Spinach

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 20.—"Eat your spinach, dear, it's good for you!"

Are mothers justified in saying this to their children, or have the virtues of spinach been overstated?

For a long time the values of spinach have been extolled from various quarters, and of late years "Popeye" has done much to popularize this vegetable with children, says Professor Hazel Hauck of the New York state college of home economics. But recently, she adds, the notion has come that spinach may have some faults.

Using rats, babies, and adult humans in experiments, scientific workers have found that the calcium in spinach is not so well used as that in milk. This seems to be due to the oxalic acid of the spinach, which combines with the calcium from the spinach and other foods, and is excreted.

Would Compromise

Some persons who learn this might say that no one should eat spinach, but Professor Hauck says she would compromise, for no food is perfect, and even the best of foods may do harm if over-eaten.

Perhaps spinach has been too frequently used as an example of a green leafy vegetable, she explains. Many other greens are good in vitamin A and iron. Dandelion, kale, escarole, chard, broccoli, mustard greens, parsley, lamb's quarters, leaf lettuce and collards, and turnip tops. Of the greens thus far tested, lettuce, kale, endive, Brussels sprouts, dandelion, mustard green and turnip tops have been found to contain none or at most, only a trace of oxalic acid. Hence food experts would help vegetable pro-

Such devices as these, the police say, have been causing too much traffic congestion and too many accidents.

Another criticism of spinach, Professor Hauck says, is that not all of its iron is available for blood-building. Although science need more evidence, present knowledge shows that the percentage of total iron available for building blood is generally less for green leafy vegetables than for some other foods, such as whole grain cereals, egg yolk, and liver. Even so, according to Miss Hauck, the green leaves may still be valuable sources of iron because they are relatively richer in iron than many common foods.

This Thanksgiving's Pumpkin Pies Will Have Trimmings Of Their Own

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

(AP Feature Service Writer)

Pumpkin pies have gone mod-ern.

The shiny tops prized by grandmothers often are concealed now by a coating of whipped cream, tracery meringue, coconut or delicately-flavored sauce.

Filings, too, are more varied. White standpatters demand theirs plain—with thick wedge of tangy cheese alongside—left-wing pie eaters prefer fillings containing fruits or nuts, for instance.

Secrets of Success.

There are several secrets for the success of any pumpkin pie. The first lies in the crust. It must be rich and well placed in the pan—to allow for a thick filling. A little grated cheese may be added to give a pleasing flavor combination.

The oven should be hot the first ten minutes the pie is in the oven. This will bake the crust so well that the filling will not soak in.

The second secret is in the filling. Although it may be made in a number of ways it must be poured in a thick layer into the crust, and it must not be permitted to run over the edge. It should rise only to within a fourth of an inch of the top edge of the crust, since it will rise a little during baking.

Brown sugar enriches the flavor of the filling. Adding a tablespoonful of molasses to the regular ingredients will darken the color.

A combination of spices is usually best. About one teaspoonful of nutmeg and half a teaspoonful of nutmeg, cloves and ginger is enough for each pie.

Quivery Filling.

Eggs are important. Two table-spoonfuls of flour may be used in place of one egg, however, if eggs are too expensive.

The pie is done when the crust is brown and shrinks slightly from the pan. The filling should be slightly quivery, since it will stiffen as it cools.

Serve the pie warm or topped with whipped cream, cream cheese, hard sauce, orange sherbet or crushed coconut macaroons.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Nov. 29—Mrs. Nettie Jones was re-elected president and Mrs. Addie Van Demark vice-president at the annual business meeting of the West Shokan Ladies' Aid Society, held Wednesday at the church basement. Mrs. Anna Avery was re-named treasurer and Mrs. Belle Burgher secretary. The following members answered to the roll call: Mrs. Nettie Jones, Mrs. Addie Van Demark, Mrs. Anna Avery, Mrs. Belle Burgher, Mrs. Ole Bell, Mrs. Blanche Rodriguez, Mrs. Matie Davis, Mrs. Fanny Boice, Mrs. Idella North, Mrs. Mary Hyde, Mrs. Charles Richter, Mrs. Minnie Every, Mrs. Colie Roosa, Mrs. Ella Bell, Mrs. Bertha Bell, Mrs. Addie Breithaupt, Mrs. Alice Bell, Mrs. Rachel Kerr, Miss Jeannie Kerr. Visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Roos of Kingston, Martin J. Every, Sylvester Jones, Warren Hyde and Henry J. Bell. Reports revealed that the Auxiliary had enjoyed a very successful year financially, the treasury having a substantial current balance well above $300. During the year various improvements have been made, among which was the re-decorating of the church interior. A committee of four was named consisting of Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Van Demark, Mrs. Every and Mrs. Burgher to select a suitable church carpet and other accessories. It was decided to hold a box social at the church on Friday evening, December 10. All ladies are requested to furnish a lunch for two and at this time each bring something to put in a Christmas basket for Mr. and Mrs. William Bender. There will be music and a suitable social program. Everyone is extended a very cordial invitation.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Trowbridge and Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Davis of Olive Bridge attended the funeral services of Stephen F. Cordes at West Saugerties. The name of Mr. Cordes is prominent in the history of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 491. He was among the group of visiting officials that instituted the new lodge at Brodhead Bridge during the month of August 1881, and at this time initiated the charter members.

Among the personal effects left by the recently deceased Charlie Thompson and now in possession of his sister, Mrs. Mary Marshall, are a number of letters exchanged by his father and mother while Mr. Thompson, Sr., was in the Civil War service with the famous 20th Regiment. These letters, well written and preserved, contain many items of interest.

SOME FELLA'S MIGHT LIKE IT

By AL CAPP

The Moss Feature Syndicate,
Greensboro, N. C.

You can say one thing for fool drivers. When the inevitable happens, they don't blame the government.

Junior found a cat asleep and it was purring contentedly. He rushed up to his mother and said: "Oh, Mother dear, the cat went to sleep and left his motor running."

Our idea of a perfectly mated couple is a wife who does the driving from the back seat and a husband who does the baking from the dinner table.

If you wish to know how to gain an anxiety expression, try this:

Stage Producer—My dear chap, that won't do at all. You must look into her face anxiously. Try to imagine you're in a taxi watching the face of the meter.

Like the steep hills when first viewed by the motorist, most worries level off when you come to them.

Peeved Customer—Hey, walter, I've found a tack in this doughnut!

Walter—Why the ambitious little thing! It must think it's a tire.

Read it or not—Barber shops in London are called "gentlemen's hairdressers."

The old-fashioned man who never thought anything of walking 12 or 15 miles in an afternoon and evening now has a grandson who never thought of it either.

A tourist stopped his car on the road and asked a little country boy how far it was to Brushville. The little boy replied: "It's 24,000 miles the way you're going, but if you turn around it ain't but four."

A trailer may not be as convenient as a house, but you can't keep a house moving ahead of the tax man.

Little Visitor (from the city)—What's the man doing to grandpa's pigs?

Grandmother—They're vacinating them.

Little Visitor—What for? Pogs don't go to school.

Final Warning

Leaves, so glorious on the trees, Will make a roadway skiddy; So be careful driver, please, Don't leave your wife a widdy.

Boss (smiling)—On the way to Smith and Sons you will pass a baseball field and—

Office Boy (hopefully)—Yes, sir!

Boss (still smiling)—Well, pass it.

Real Christians do not carry their religion, their religion carries them.

Neighbor—I hear that your husband has bought a motor boat.

Mrs. Smythe—Yes, that is so.

Neighbor—What does he call it?

Mrs. Smythe—That depends on whether it works well or not.

The man who took a great pride in his lawn, found to his dismay, a heavy crop of dandelions. He did his best to uproot and destroy them, but all his efforts were unsuccessful, so he decided to write to the federal Department of Agriculture to ask some advice.

In his letter he described his woes at great length, told all about the things that he had tried and done to destroy the pesky dandelions, and ended by asking: "What do I do now?"

In due time came this reply: "We suggest you learn to love them."

Sweet Young Thing—What did father say when you told him you were going to take me away from him?

Fiancee—He seemed to feel his loss keenly at first, but I squared him with a good cigar.

Most people get their share of justice; what they are short on mercy.

ASSOCIATED PRESS PICTURE NEWS

HERE IS FADED GLORY of a once-prosperous mansion of the share-cropping area. On the steps in this picture by Margaret Bourke-White sit two residents, part of a family which pays five dollars a month for two rooms. Many other families occupy the house whose pre-war glory is lost.

. . . THEIR FACES TELL THE STORY of share-cropping as no words can. This picture by Margaret Bourke-White is from a new book in which Author Erskine Caldwell expresses verbally for these characters the sentiment, "A man learns not to expect much after he's farmed cotton most of his life."

SHE HUNTS FOXES THE HARD WAY during winter on an island in Cook Inlet, Alaska. Miss Kay Barker is a New York socialite, but she won't hunt in society's usual manner. Here she is at Seattle, Wash., selecting warm clothing for a chilly trip on which she hopes to trap 1,000 foxes.

ALL LANDINGS ARE THREE POINTED with this Stearman-Hammond plane recently acquired by Royal Dutch Airlines to teach pilots use of tricycle landing gear, soon to appear on a leading American-made airliner.

OFF THE RECORD duties of policemen include many odd tasks, but none is performed more willingly than this. Patrolman George Rose of Manhattan's 20th Street station is shown here in the midst of the annual pre-Christmas campaign to collect and repair toys for poor children.

OVER EGYPT as queen soon will reign Miss Farida Zulficar, 17, who on Jan. 26 will become bride of that nation's 18-year-old ruler, King Farouk.

WHERE BEAUTY WAS DUTY, southeastern sororities meeting at Memphis, Tenn., chose Miss Margaret Rowe, Memphis high school girl, as "flower queen."

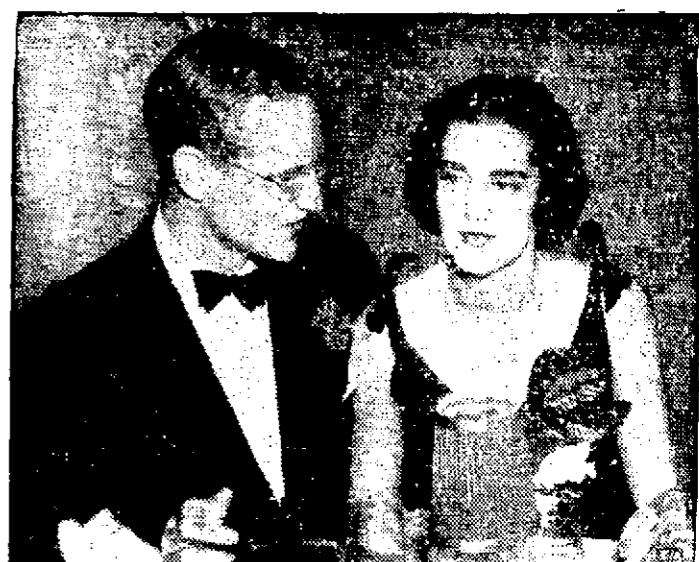

FOR PEACE efforts and ardent work in organizing the League of Nations, Viscount Cecil of Chelwood was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 1937.

UP FROM A BEER CELLAR putsch at Munich in November, 1923, rose Adolf Hitler and his Nazi lieutenants to dominate Germany. This year Der Fuehrer and his aides revisited the scene to celebrate the anniversary. Here are Hitler (left), Air Minister Goering (hand on hip), and War Minister von Blomberg (extreme right).

NATURE PROVES A MASTER OF IRONY on the Austro-Hungarian border where her forces carved a natural air raid shelter in territory which since before the days of airplanes has been a frontier of wars and rumors thereof.

BIG APPLE FANS were Warren Pershing, son of General John J. Pershing, and his fiancee, Muriel Baché Richards, at a party in New York City.

RAMS ARE READY this year with an offense almost equal to their powerful defense. Halfback Joe Witkowski, (above) is one of many reasons.

. . . WILLING power on attack and defense is provided by Tackle Ed Franco, candidate for All-America honors again in 1937 as in 1936.

. . . AND ABLE TO ACCEPT ANY OPPORTUNITY to play in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day, Fordham has built a mighty machine around a big man with a big name. Alex Wojciechowicz, All-America center last year and outstanding candidate again this year, is the keystone of a wall of "seven blocks of granite" which Pittsburgh's vaunted powerhouse failed to pierce three years in a row. Offensively he is a smashing charger.

. . . FOR A TRIP to touchdown territory, Ram opponents must pass Al Sabat斯基, a tackle equal in power and ability to his mate, Ed Franco.

. . . 'FROM ROSE HILL TO ROSE BOWL' is a slogan often chanted but not yet realized in the four-year coaching regime of Jim Crowley. This year the Maroon head man, one-time member of Rockne's "Four Horsemen" looks toward the Pacific coast, hopeful that an invitation will be forthcoming.

Van Steenburgh-Schryver

On Sunday, November 14, at the parsonage, 85 Wurts street, was celebrated the marriage of Kenneth Van Steenburgh of Kingston and Miss Jane Schryver of Port Ewen. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Steenburgh of 117 Lucas avenue. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Schryver of Port Ewen. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clarence Edward Brown, minister of the Wurts Street Baptist Church. After a short wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and Virginia the young couple will take up their residence with the bride's mother in Port Ewen.

Mrs. MacMillan to Speak

Mrs. Laura MacMillan will be the guest speaker at the November meeting of the Service Club of the Roundout Presbyterian Church which will meet Monday evening with Mrs. Frank McCausland at her home on Crane street. Mrs. McCausland will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. R. H. Van Valkenburgh and Mrs. Roy Palmer. The devotional period will be in charge of Mrs. E. C. Angel. The members of the club are asked to bring the sewing given out at the October meeting.

Ball Program Completed.

M. S. Strawgate, chairman of the Ahavath Isreal 35th Anniversary Ball, announces that he has completed the program for their show and ball to be held on Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, November 24, at the Kingston municipal auditorium. Doors will open at 7:30 p. m. and the members of the American Legion Drum Corps will act as ushers. At 8 o'clock, Knappa Orchestra, formerly of the Hotel Astor and French Casino, will give a half hour concert and then play for the show, which will last until 10 o'clock. The show consists of 8 acts as follows:

G. R. Recognition Service

The Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. will hold their annual recognition service at the Municipal Auditorium on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which time more than one hundred new members of the department will be formally initiated. The clubs taking part in the ceremony are from all the school districts of the city and include the Wise Ones' Club, the Blue Triangle Club, the Friendly Triangle Club, the Amon Ra Club, the T. M. T. M. Club, the Ever Ready Club, the Busy Bee Club, the Pep Club, The Wide Awake Club, and the Cheerio Club. Mrs. Harry B. Walker, Mrs. Raymond Rignal, co-chairmen of the Girl Reserve Committee, and Miss Lillian Herdman, secretary of the department, will lead the service, and will be assisted by the club advisers and presidents. Parents and adult friends of the members are cordially invited to witness the ceremonial.

SOCIAL

To Entertain Junior League

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Miss Florence Cordts and Mrs. John Cordts, Jr., will be hostesses to the Junior League at a tea at the former's home for the purpose of inaugurating the Arts Program. This program will consist of a series of talks by noted artists for the purpose of stimulating interest in art and increasing a deeper appreciation of it. Judson Smith of the Woodstock School of Painting will open this series of talks at this time.

Gippert-Terwilliger

Miss Shirley Terwilliger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Terwilliger of 160 Ten Broek avenue, and Louis G. Gippert, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gippert, of Saugerties, were united in marriage at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the parsonage of the First Dutch Church, by the Rev. Arthur Oudemool, pastor. They were attended by Miss Margaret Gippert, sister of the groom, and Howard Terwilliger, brother of the bride. After a motor trip to New York city and Washington, D. C. they will reside at Saugerties, where Mr. Gippert is engaged in the dairy business. Mrs. Gippert has been employed as an assistant in the office of the county treasurer.

Giant Sea Lizards Once Roamed West

Fossils 50 Million Years Old Are Unearthed.

Fresno, Calif.—Valuable fossils which prove that giant sea lizards roamed the Pacific slope in the Cretaceous geologic period about 50,000,000 years ago are attracting scientific attention to the barren hillsides of the coast range, between the San Joaquin valley and the coast strip bordering the Pacific.

Led by geologists from Fresno State college, excavators have unearthed two rare specimens of a mosasaurus and plesiosaurus, both resembling sea lizards, and in a remarkable state of preservation.

The plesiosaurus is believed to be the most valuable from a geologic standpoint. Nearly thirty feet of vertebrae and three large flippers have been removed from a hillside fifty miles east of Fresno. The skeleton had been cut in half by a rock fault, but the head, most prized part of the fossil, was found nearly later.

First Fossil in Far West.

The plesiosaurus is believed to be the first found west of the Rocky mountains, although they have been located in Kansas and midwestern chalk beds.

The mosasaurus fossil was found within 100 yards of the plesiosaurus. Frank Paiva, gypsum mine operator who discovered the first prehistoric remains, chanced to see a small vertebrae in a dry creek bottom, where it had washed down when the skeleton was exposed by sliding shale. William M. Tucker, head of the Fresno State college geology department, made the skeleton discovery and supervised its excavation.

Charles L. Camp, noted curator of the University of California museum, and S. P. Welles, his assistant, came here to view the specimen. Welles remained to help with the removal of the bones in plaster casts.

Lizards 20 Feet Long.

The first mosasaurus found in the West was uncovered near Gustine, west of Fresno, which also is being excavated. The sea lizards were about twenty feet long, with a long, slender neck and head about three feet long. The tail bones were uncovered first by the geologists.

Many other valuable fossils have been found in this region. Big sea cow skeletons were found near Dos Palos, while innumerable shark's teeth, elephant bones and remains of mastodons have come unearthened. The leg bone of a buffalo also was found.

The expensive process of cleaning, restoring and mounting the plesiosaurus and mosasaurus fossils is expected to take more than a year.

Isolated Eskimos Found

Free of Tooth Trouble
Rockport, Ind.—Most primitive Eskimos have little tooth trouble if isolated from traders and white men's food, according to Dr. Taylor Pyle, bureau of Indian affairs supervising dentist for Alaska, who visited here recently.

He said that dental cavities were rare among tribes isolated in Alaska while the Indian who has been in contact with the white men since the coming of the Russians is constantly developing a toothache.

As wards of the government, Eskimos and Indians receive free dental attention, Dr. Pyle said. There are about thirty-five practicing dentists in Alaska and Eskimo and Indian work is distributed among fifteen in widely separated districts. In addition, Dr. Pyle personally attends the more isolated communities, reaching them by plane, boat and dog team.

During four seasons in the Far North, Dr. Pyle has made a study of Eskimo teeth, diet and living conditions in the isolated regions.

Dr. Pyle said that when twins are born the Eskimo believes that there will not be enough brains for both, so only one is permitted to live.

More Men Are Teaching in Schools, Survey Shows

Madison, Wis.—Men more and more are turning to school teaching in Wisconsin, a survey by the state education association reveals.

An increased number of men in the teaching profession during the last seven years applies in rural, village grade, city and high schools. In 1930, there were 3,000 male teachers in the state's elementary and high schools. The number had grown to 4,500 in 1938. During the same period the number of women teachers in the same schools decreased 600.

Rural schools, strongholds of women teachers some years ago, had more than 1,000 male teachers in 1936 compared to 631 in 1930.

Tired Omaha Bus Rider Wins Right to Sit Down

Omaha.—One Omahan at least, believes in standing up for his rights to sit down.

Arrested on a charge of drunkenness while sitting on a curb, the defendant told Judge George Holmes, "I got tired waiting for a bus. I helped build that sidewalk years ago, and I guess I can sit on it if I want to."

Judge Holmes agreed.

Farmer's What-Is-It?

Is Just a Ducky Hen
Somersworth, N. H.—George F. Berry's hen is just "ducky." The hen has short legs, webbed feet and walks with a waddle. It has a hen, the head and comb of a hen.

Later, to escape the peril of political disturbances, the brothers took the industry to Port of Spain in Trinidad in 1875.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Special Science Assembly.

The activities of Kingston High School got well under way on Monday morning when scholars from the Newton Science Club, general biology and the general science end classes assembled in the auditorium for a special assembly. Featuring the program were the moving pictures of "Heart and Circulation," delving into the ways and means of testing hearts. The true to life scenes also depicted hearts of various animals being analyzed. One of the most educational photos to the science pupils, however, was the part showing blood coursing through the blood vessels. Before the pictures were shown, Principal Clarence L. Dunn gave a brief talk on the value of the picture for science students.

Tuesday morning students with eight or more units met in auditorium for the purpose of selecting a senior ring, which will be used in the 1938 graduating class. Various designs were then posted in the front corridor.

The ring which the seniors favored has a very attractive design and holds a sectional value, that of containing the historic Senate House and the Catskill Mountains. At the bottom of the ring the Senate House is located while beneath this is a large K. The center background has three mountain peaks representing the Catskills. On either side of the K there are the H and S initials with the entire layout being superimposed. This has reference to a conventional design which includes the lamp of knowledge. All of the ring is in oxidized yellow and gold.

Special "A" Assembly

On Wednesday morning the students of "A" assembly were treated to a popular film on "Safe Driving" sponsored by a soft drinks bottling works. Throughout the film there were special incidents displaying various forms and laws which govern the drivers on the road in this day of congested driving.

"A" and "B" Assemblies

On Thursday and Friday morning in the assemblies talks given by girl students featured the programs. Miss Amy Munn gave a brief but interesting speech on the annual collection for the Industrial Home, stressing the school's part in helping the less fortunate children in having a happy Thanksgiving.

Following Miss Munn's talk, Principal Clarence L. Dunn announced that a collection would be taken next Monday afternoon for the purpose and expressed his hopes that the result would be as favorable as of past years. On behalf of Prismus, Miss Emily Cragin took the platform and requested the students' cooperation with this society again in giving old toys to be overhauled in order that the boys and girls of the city who would be otherwise incapable of having gifts on Christmas morning. This request is under the auspices of the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee who are being assisted against this season by the girl's organization.

Miss Caroline McCreary, president of the Prismus Society, followed with information concerning the history and present functions of Prismus, Iss. McCreary stated that 330 girls are now enrolled. The speech-making end of the program concluded with Ella Guida's pep talk which undoubtedly aroused plenty of school spirit among the attending students. Eight awards were presented by Dame Rumor, the school paper, in the misspelled word contest and the football consensus. The winners were Katherine Crosby, Marian Toffel, Robert Friedman, Frank Mazucca, Frank Volk, Michael Guida and Francis Stauble.

School Receives Camera.

The graduating class of last term, 1937, made a presentation to Principal Clarence L. Dunn Friday of an up-to-date camera which is to be used in photographing scenes connected with school life. This speed graphic camera includes a photo meter for measuring light and a flash-light synchronizer. This former class also intends to purchase a loud speaking system for the students in the auditorium.

Banking Council Play.

Under the direction of Miss Madaline Tarrant the banking council will present a special play entitled "Drawing Interest" next Wednesday in the special "A" assembly. The cast is as follows with their titles: Nellie Irene Cut; Jim, William Mohr; Bill, Richard Bronson; Phil, William Kaznowski; Tommy, Rudy Shokaker; Fred, Edwin Kuttle.

Rural schools, strongholds of women teachers some years ago, had more than 1,000 male teachers in 1936 compared to 631 in 1930.

Omaha.—One Omahan at least, believes in standing up for his rights to sit down.

Arrested on a charge of drunkenness while sitting on a curb, the defendant told Judge George Holmes, "I got tired waiting for a bus. I helped build that sidewalk years ago, and I guess I can sit on it if I want to."

Judge Holmes agreed.

Farmer's What-Is-It?
Is Just a Ducky Hen
Somersworth, N. H.—George F. Berry's hen is just "ducky." The hen has short legs, webbed feet and walks with a waddle. It has a hen, the head and comb of a hen.

Later, to escape the peril of political disturbances, the brothers took the industry to Port of Spain in Trinidad in 1875.

Christmas Seal Sale Opening

The opening of the 31st Christmas Seal Sale conducted by the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health will be observed on Friday, November 26 at 11 a. m., when the fire alarm of Kingston, and church bells will ring a county-wide salute to the Seal sale. Since the 1937 Christmas Seal is built around bells—the jolly bell ringer ringing in a new era in the fight against tuberculosis—this event seems most appropriate.

Pastors of churches will call attention of their congregation of this event in observance of the annual sale of Christmas Seals sold each year to raise funds for the continuation of the fight against tuberculosis and other diseases.

The Kingston fire alarm will sound five taps.

With tuberculosis causing the most deaths in the period of life between 15 and 45 years of age, the leaders in our communities feel the cooperation of all is indeed justified—for no home is safe until all homes are safe.

200 Typhoon Deaths

Manila, Nov. 20 (AP)—Relief agencies expressed belief today that deaths from this week's typhoon would exceed 200 and damage would mount well above $4,000,000 when all reports are received from the stricken area in the central Philippines. Relief agencies, still busy aiding victims of the Arniadice Day typhoon that left 33 known dead and 40,000 homeless on Luzon Island, sent workers to the devastated areas of the Visayas group.

Three-fourths of all women professional workers in the United States are school teachers and nurses.

Bernstein Takes Second Award At Stamp Exhibition

The third Hudson Valley Stamp exhibition was held at the Hotel Campbell, Poughkeepsie, yesterday and today, sponsored by the Dutchess County Philatelic Society. Eleven stamp clubs from the Hudson Valley territory, including the Colonial Stamp Club of Kingston, had exhibits at the show and better than 125 frames of stamps were shown.

First award, for the best frame of stamps in the exhibition, a silver cup, went to Joseph R. Kessler, of the Rockland Club, who showed U. S. 19th century stamps.

Second award, also a cup, was won by Sam Bernstein, Jr., of the Kingston Club, who showed five frames of U. S. commemoratives.

Mr. Bernstein's complete display also took first place in its class. Third general award went to Vernon E. Shepard, of the Dutchess County club, whose exhibit won second place in the commemorative class.

Harold S. Mills, of the Dutchess County club, won the cup for fourth award, with his exhibit of U. S. 19th century stamps.

Sidney K. Clapp, of Kingston, won a number of ribbons, taking second for foreign specialized and also for Canadians and capturing third places for a display of miscellaneous bridge stamps and for 20th century U. S. stamps.

C. H. Van der Loo, of Woodstock, also was a second place winner in his class.

Others having entries in the show included Abel B. Ellsworth, Lydia M. Scott, and G. Elmer Gregory of the Colonial Stamp Club and Miska Petersham of the Rip Van Winkle Club at Woodstock.

25 Narcotics Arrests

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Treasury agents struck a blow today at what they called one of the nation's largest narcotics syndicates, with a series of simultaneous raids that landed 23 men and women in jail.

The agents, in squads, struck at the same hour last night on pre-arranged orders. They arrested 16 in New York city, three in Boston, two in Chicago and two in San Francisco.

All Hope Abandoned

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—House leaders disclosed today they have abandoned virtually all hope the rules committee will voluntarily permit the House to vote on the administration's wage and hour bill at the special session.

Eight Food Deaths

Tucumcari, N. M., Nov. 20 (AP)—Battling against lethal food poisoning that has claimed eight lives, physicians expressed "slight hope" today they might save two of the four remaining seriously stricken victims.

The first victim died less than 24 hours after eating spoiled, home-preserved chili peppers on Monday.

Ex-President's Kid Held

New Orleans, Nov. 20 (AP)—Walter Stauffer, great grandson of President Zachary Taylor and member of an old and prominent Louisiana family, and three other New Orleanians today faced charges of violating the neutrality act in an alleged plot to smuggle arms and ammunition into Cuba.

Hurt in Train Wreck

Bluefield, W. Va., Nov. 20 (AP)—A number of persons were reported injured today in the wreck of Norfolk and western passenger train No. 24 about six miles west of here. Early reports did not indicate that any one was killed.

BRITISHER SETS AUTO SPEED MARKHeating of New School Unsolved

Trustees Remmert, Hasbrouck and Lane.

Superintendent's Report

Mr. Van Ingen submitted a report on the high school attendance and also figures which tend to show that for the next few years there will not be a dropping off of attendance since the classes in grammar school now indicate an increasing attendance for the next five or six years.

The report follows:

To the Board of Education:

I am presenting high school registration data with estimates of number for the second term beginning January 31, 1938.

Present registration in high school:

Boys 1018

Girls 1025

Total 2044

Estimated withdrawals during present term 100

Estimated withdrawals at beginning of second term 30

130

(a) Estimated number of present students who will attend second term 1914

Number students in 8-A grade at present: Candidates for promotion to high school second term. 121

Estimated number new non-residents 45

(b) Total estimated new entrants 166

Estimated total registration next term (a)-(b) 2080

About 75 of these may be in municipal auditorium annex 75

This leaves about 2,000 for the high school building which is approximately 70 more than can possibly be accommodated. The second term last school year 1,933 were registered, 43 of which were in the annex. Thus 1,940 were in the high school building.

From the above it appears that additional student stations must be obtained for about 70 pupils.

The following indicates the registration in the several grades:

Grade 8-A 121

8-B 196

317

Grade 7-A 188

7-B 209

337

Grade 6-A and B 423

Grade 5-A and B 401

Grade 4-A and B 392

Grade 3-A and B 375

Grade 2-A and B 335

Grade 1-A and B 415

317

It appears from these figures that the numbers will normally reach the high school level during the next several years will not be diminished.

Respectfully submitted,

B. C. VAN INGEN,

Superintendent,

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 19, 1937.

The board granted use of the auditorium to the Mendelssohn Club for its annual concert on May 6. Permission was also granted the Ulster County Theatre Association for use of the auditorium for the evening of December 9 and also for a dress rehearsal on December 8.

Bids for supplying the schools with magazines for the ensuing year were received from three bidders as follows:

George H. Shiels, of Lake Katrine, $108. Anna S. Newkirk, Kingston, $105.50 and Viola Atwater, of Kingston, $106.75. The contract was awarded to Mrs. Newkirk, low bidder.

The finance committee offered the payroll for November amounting to $38,097.84 and bills in the sum of $0.042.00 for audit.

Insurance Discussed

The matter of insurance came up for a long discussion. The fact that danger exists during the present blasting on the site of the new school came up first and it was suggested the board investigate this matter and if the board is not now covered that suitable insurance be taken out.

Extension of the public liability insurance to cover the newly acquired Central school tract of land was discussed and since the item is but a small one the board voted to have the present insurance carried on the high school etc., this picture proved of special interest to the boys and will be very helpful in their work.

This was the first public meeting held by the scouts in their newly renovated troop room, situated in the basement of the Reformed Church, and the many visitors were enthusiastic in their praise of the new meeting place.
